The El Toro is 8 feet long and about 4 feet wide with snub nosed bow and high sides. They are a great one person sail boat or trainer, yacht tender or small fishing skiff. The boats I build are identical to the Smith Built El Toros that were produced by the Smith Brothers from the early sixties through 2007. The jigs, patterns, measuring devices and most importantly, personal mentoring, were acquired from Fred Smith and through this, I am trying to continue the legacy of the Smith Built El Toro. All El Toros are built with 1088 okume plywood with spruce chines, keelson, mast and boom along with an oak outer keel. Knees, rub rail and accent woods are meranti mahogany. Final sailboat sailing weight is about 80 pounds.
